NOTE REGARDING WESTLAW CHARGES

Additional charges may apply, depending on your Westlaw subscription. To learn more about potential additional charges, please verify your Westlaw access with your firm's Westlaw plan administrator or Westlaw account manager.

Using this Report

When you click on a link in this report, your internet browser will launch the Westlaw sign-in page. If the document is included in your firm's Westlaw subscription, there is no additional charge for viewing the document. If the document is not included in your Westlaw plan, a warning screen (pictured below) may or may not appear during your work with this report, depending on your firm's Westlaw settings. If a warning screen appears, click Cancel to avoid an additional charge. To view the document and incur an additional charge, click View Document.

Searching for Experts within a Docket

To view the information in the dockets, click the link to the docket. Then click CTRL + F on your keyboard and type the expert's last name in the dialog box that is displayed. Alternatively, type the number of the entry you wish to view. If the docket consists of more than one page, a dialog box containing the current page number and hyperlinked arrow buttons for navigation are displayed in the upper-left corner of each Westlaw page. You will need to use CTRL + F to find the expert's name on each page of the docket.

To view PDF documents in the docket, click the view/download PDF link to the right of the docket entry. If multiple PDFs are attached to an entry, click the View link next to each desired attachment/exhibit when prompted.

Selection of Appendix Documents

Appendix document selection includes the following criteria:

- Type of document - deposition or testimony documents are preferred. If no expert documents are available, we choose other relevant documents such as memorandum supporting a motion in limine to exclude the expert's testimony.
- Date of document - more recent documents are preferred.
- Relevance - if there are several recent testimonial documents available, we select those that are involved in a motion to exclude or are topically relevant.

If you desire a different selection of appendix documents in your report, contact us and we will be happy to help.

4 Expert Evaluator Report

This section includes information gathered from an extensive Westlaw Search. It includes case subject matter information, award amounts, and court appearances by jurisdiction for the past ten years, depending upon available data. The databases used for this section are updated frequently which allows access to current reports, affidavits, depositions or trial transcripts.

I. QUALIFICATIONS

In 1971 I received a Ph.D. in Organic Chemistry from Michigan State University. I joined Dow Plastics in 1972. I retired from Dow Plastics in 2001 as a Principal Scientist. During my years at Dow, I led a team of Plastic Scientists that worked together to understand the science of plastic degradation in order to help Dow develop improved antioxidant stabilizer formulations for Dow's plastic products. Our goal was to understand, not only the mechanism of degradation of plastics, but also the mechanism of degradation of antioxidants causing them to become depleted from the plastic. In 1995 I published a peer reviewed scientific paper entitled "Permanence of Polymer Stabilizers in Hostile Environments," which addresses the topic of the loss of stabilizers from plastics allowing the plastic to rapidly degrade.¹

I also helped Dow develop several medical grade plastic formulations. Following my retirement from Dow in 2001, I started Plastic Failure Labs. Over the past decade I have served as an expert witness in over 150 litigations involving the failure of plastic products, including medical devices. I have published many articles and scientific publications involving the science of plastics, how they fail, and how to select the right plastic for specific applications. (END OF EXCERPT)

Root Cause of Embark Fitness Ball Explosion Resulting in Serious Injury to Darold Borman

Executive Summary

When inflated articles such as balloons and rubber balls are placed under pressure and then punctured, they explode. The explosion results from the rapid propagation of the hole in the sidewall of the balloon or ball. The rapid propagation of the hole in the dense wall material takes place because there is no mechanism present to absorb the energy and arrest the crack propagation. Antiburst balls, on the other hand, are manufactured with a cellular/foam structure (Figure 1). The pockets of gas present in the ball material absorb energy and disrupt/arrest the propagation. The sudden explosion of a fitness ball used to support body weight will likely lead to bodily injury. It is therefore critically important that exercise balls be manufactured to be "antiburst" so that the ball does not explode if it is accidentally punctured by a hidden sharp object (e.g., staple) while in use. Fitness balls without antiburst characteristics should NEVER be used to support body weight. Companies that manufacture fitness balls without any antiburst features while teaching that it is alright to use the balls to support body-weight, are negligent and put the public at risk.

Introduction and Qualifications

I am a senior toxicologist and director of toxicology at the Center for Toxicology and Environmental Health, LLC (CTEH®) specializing in risk assessment, exposure assessment, toxicity evaluations, the evaluation of experimental design and methodologies, and assessing causal relationships between chemical exposure and disease. My educational background includes a B.S. in biochemistry with an emphasis in toxicology from Murray State University in 1993, and a Ph.D. in toxicology from The University of Georgia in 2000. My current duties at CTEH® include serving as a consulting toxicologist; leading responses to, and providing toxicological support for hazardous materials incidents; and providing toxicological support to care providers and workers with potential chemical exposures. I have gained extensive knowledge and experience in the mechanisms and toxicities of a wide range of compounds including chlorinated hydrocarbons, volatile organic hydrocarbon solvents (VOCs) including trichloroethylene, polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbons (PAHs), pesticides/herbicides, irritant gases, and heavy metals.

I have extensive experience with hydrogen sulfide exposure through my activities as an emergency-response toxicologist. I have lead air monitoring teams addressing hydrogen sulfide (H₂S) environments of up 50,000 ppm, and industrial hygiene teams addressing H₂S being generated from weathered crude oil. I have personally sampled and monitored for H₂S in a number of situations ranging from tanks of weathered crude oil to oil well blowouts. I have also addressed the clinical toxicology of hydrogen sulfide through the Worker Exposure Response (END OF EXCERPT)
